Early pregnancy is one of the most relevant issue in today's generation. As we study about the experiences of the mother that experience early pregnancy, we notice that it is difficult to overcome all those circumstances that an early pregnant woman experience. This study is not aiming to encourage anyone to enter in the world of serious responsibility. The main objective is to boost the confidence and encourage every early mother to continue studying & at the end they will attain the biggest victory in their lives.

Study about what are the significant experiences the participant has, as an early pregnant woman?, how do the participant overcome challenges as a teenage mom? Did the early pregnancy became a hindrance to the participant to continue her dream as an individual and last what is the impact of her experience to her as individual. Those questions will be the pattern to attain the objective of this study.
